W. Ya. News

M. J. White has added an old Spanish coin to our collection. It is almost as large as a half dollar and bears the sign and superscription of Carlos III, King of Spain and the ladies. The date is 1774. While Spanish coins of older date are comparatively common, few are so well preserved as this one. They are pure silver and of a consequence very soft and soon wear smooth when used a pocket piece.

James Petts, aged seven years, was badly hurt last Friday while playing at a wood chute in West Marlinton. He and a lot of his fellows were sliding down the chute, which is of rough oak boards and is very steep. He was put into the chute and given a start. He was going at a terrific rate when his leg caught on a splinter. A frightful wound was inflicted. The snag entered just above the ankle, ran through the calf and into the knee. The splinter was four inches long and as large as a man's small finger. Dr. Norman Price was called and dressed the wound. If there are no complications, the injury will not be permanent.

The people from the Hill country were gathered together in Marlinton Saturday, to consider the building of a Mutual telephone line. There were three separate organizations, the Knapps Creek line, the Brown Creek line and the Dilley Mill line. It was decided that all three companies should build a line from Marlinton to Drisco, and the Knapps Creek people build from there to Frost, where connection should be made with the Mutual line running from Durbin by way of Bartow and Arborsale. The Browns Creek people are to build a branch from Huntersville to C. L. Moore's, and the Dilley Mill people are to join them at Mr Moore's.

The Highland Recorder in commenting on the removal of one of her citizens to Marlinton, expresses the hope that he with others who have come to this promised land, will return when the "boom days are over." Boom days, the devil, we would inform our neighbors that because we do not allow cobwebs to gather and do business every day instead of waiting for the crop to ripen, it is no sign that we are carrying on our business along other than safe, conservative lines. While our development has been rapid, there is nothing of the mushroom growth about us, nor in our prosperity of the bubble order to go up in a night. We are here to stay, as are the numbers of good people from Highland who have cast their lots with us and materially aided in becoming that we are. We don't like to be pointed at by the old world towns, who with a shake of their heads say remember the cities which sprang up when the speculative craze struck this section in the early nineties, and draw farther back in their shells. Our business methods are safe and sane, but anything would be preferable to the ultra conservatism of dry rot.

A month or so ago a friend of ours sent us the head of a freshly killed deer, to have it mounted. We didn't know what we were getting and took it from the express office and opened it in broad daylight. The next week we were surprised to have an offer come to us and to inquire into the matter. We have since found out that the deer was killed on the head of Tygart's Valley. Some parties had gone out fox chasing and had started the deer in a briar patch on A. Lawson's farm. It had run over Chest Mountain, and in an hour or so the dogs brought it back to the place it had started and killed it in a deep pool of water. It was a two-year old doe, barren and fat. The neighbors heard the dogs come to the river and went down and found the deer dead. It was decided to save it. We think it very improbable that any action be taken in the matter as there was no premeditated violation of the law, if we can call it a violation at all, and if there is it is not likely to be sustained. Things have come to a poor pass, if a man cannot save the meat the dog has killed unbeknownst to his owner.

Council Proceedings

Town Council met Monday night, adjourned session to consider the advisability of bonding the town in order to put in a sewerage system and improve the streets and walks. Those present were T. S. McNeel, Mayor, Calvin W. Price, Recorder, J. V. Knight, N. C. McNeil, R. M. Beard, J. W. Baxter, Councilmen. A number of citizens were present and expressed themselves on the question of issuing bonds.

The following resolution was offered by Mr Baxter and adopted by the unanimous vote of the council:

That the town of Marlinton raise the sum of $15,000.00 by the issue of 150 4 per cent bonds of the denomination of $100.00 each. That a sinking fund be provided and the interest on said bonds be paid semi annually, on the 15th day of June and on the 15th day of December of each year. The said bonds to be due on the 1st day of July, 1920. That of this amount $5,000 be expended for a sewerage system, and $10,000 be expended in improving streets as ordered by the Council of a 11 Town. That this order be submitted to the voters of the said town for their ratification.

Paris D. Yeager, commissioner to organize a fire department made a report in which he recommended the following citizens as fire fighters.

West Marlinton—Andrew Price Calvin W. Price, Dr. N. E. Price. Marlinton—J. A. Sydenstricker, Forrest Clark, S. L. Hogsett, R. M. Beard, G. W. Ashcraft, George Duncan, H. W. Payne, E. B. Hill, Dr. Guilford, N. W. Nickell, J. D. Pallen, Geo. Ekle B. F. Willis, Dwight Alexander, R. A. Kramer, S. B. Wallace, John Wallace, B. F. Wallace, Boyd Siple, J. V. Knight, J. A. Sharp.

East Marlinton—E. D. King, Frank King, Ted King, Dr Yeager, A. D. Williams, Clarence McLaughlin, William Gibson, W. H. Wheelwright, J. W. Hill, Thos Reynolds, Steve Hiner, E. M. Arbogast, T. S. McNeel.

Fire Police—G. W. Duncan, J. A. Sharp, J. D. Pallen, H. W. Payne, George Ekle, E. D. King, Frank King, J. W. Hill, E. M. Arbogast, Andrew Price.

Paris D. Yeager and J. W. Baxter appointed a committee to report on the drainage of Upper Camden Avenue.

T. S. McNeel appointed commissioner to examine town ordinances of Lewisburg and Roncoverte in regard to issuing bonds for municipal improvements.

Charles Galford granted license to operate a box ball alley and have a restaurant in the Gourley building. The alley to be kept open no later than 11 P. M.

The question of issuing bonds for the building of a sewerage system and improving streets and walks is to be submitted to the voters of the town of Marlinton in the course of a few weeks. There is nothing to be said against the proposition and much in its favor. We have reached a stage in our development where we cannot do without sewers and streets any longer. We have been providentially spared an epidemic of typhoid so far but we cannot always hope to escape. Our streets are good only when it is not possible for them to be otherwise. Knapps Creek is eating its way into Court Street at the rate of a few feet each freshet. While not endangering property yet, a few more feet will cause the waters to destroy the street entirely and move walks and perhaps homes. On this same street horses occasionally stall in front of our court house, a building any town could well be proud of. This state of affairs is not to be blamed upon the council. The money has been used with judicious care. The council has decided that $15,000 would be sufficient to start this work of improving the town. This will give us a good sewer system, at least one good street and some permanent walk. The bonds will bear four per cent interest and are to be paid at the end of thirty-four years. It is the intention of the council, if their action is ratified by the voters, to do work that will be here to be of service to the people who make the last payment on the bonds. From every standpoint, we think the issuing of bonds advisable, and sincerely hope that the people of the town will give the council their endorsement in this action.

I will deliver meat and Joe during the summer months from 7 to 9 a. m. and after 4 p. m.

Railway Wreck

Last Thursday night as depot agent Harris, at Durbin, was waiting for the last train of the day, the through freight from Roncoverte, he heard the rumble of an engine, and going on the platform to see if it were really the belated freight, he was horrified to see a "light" engine going a round the turn out of sight at a terrific rate of speed. Number 148 was on the block and was expected momentarily. Dispatches were hastily wired to Cass and Hosterman, but not a word in return could be had from either point, showing that the last train had passed, and the offices were closed for the night.

Faint with apprehension he and a number of trainmen hurried down the track fully expecting to come upon engines and trains piled in heaps of ruins upon the mangled remains of the crew.

A few miles below Durbin at Boyer they came upon the expected scene of the wreck, but things were much better than they had any reason to expect. There lay the two fine locomotives fit only for a scrap heap, four cars of merchandise were demolished and the goods in a great measure destroyed; the track for several hundred yards was torn up delaying traffic 18 hours and costing the railway Company about $20,000 but for comparatively slight cuts and bruises on Engineer Lynch's head and the bruised arm and body of Fireman Robertson no one was hurt.

The trainmen a few minutes before had been running fast to make up time, but had slowed down at Boyer siding to put in some cars. Just as the heavy train had about about come to a stop, the engineer saw an engine a few yards in front his locomotive. There was not time to jump before crash came.

Besides the track lay a hat and cap. Whoever had been on the light engine had jumped before the collision. This engine had been left in charge of a colored watchman named John Jones, who was drunk and knew nothing as to how the engine came to have gotten off the siding, through the switch and down the track.

The case was put in officer Paris D. Yeager's hands. The hat and cap were easily recognized as belonging to negroes. News came that a negro named Walter Jones had been hurt. When the officer went to find him it was found that he had left some hours before. It was then learned that Jones and his fellow, Fred Wright, alias Fred Halt, had not come to their shanty nor gone to their usual work on the section. Then the hat and cap were identified.

Starting in a blinding snow storm officer Yeager overtook Halt on top of Alleghany, and received intelligence as to Jones' whereabouts. Telephoning Sheriff Arbogast, Jones was arrested near the village of McDowell and put in jail at Monterey.

Halt was brought to jail at Marlinton and held to await the action of the grand jury. Justice Oliver issued the commitment. He made a full confession, duly signed and attested. He and Jones had wanted to visit a colored friend some miles down the track at Hosterman, and the quickest and cheapest way was to get the watchman drunk and take the locomotive. Being just fool niggers the daring of the thing appealed to them, as well as the style of traveling. They knew a little about running a locomotive, and managed to keep the track. At Boyer the headlight of an approaching train flashed around the curve, and they say they reversed the engine and jumped. Returning to Durbin, they met the depot agent and a number of trainmen coming in search of the wreck. Stepping into the woods they allowed the men to pass.

Jones was brought over from Monterey Monday. He likewise witnessed a good profession, and allowed himself to be taken from the sheltering folds of the Old State without compelling the authorities to resort to requisition proceedings. He is no kin to Jones, the watchman. That worthy says there is only one Jones in his family, and he has no relatives.

Inevitable.
